Dear Leonard Williams III:

Thank you for your recent correspondence concerning the issues you are having with your health. The issues you discussed and the assistance you sought are outside this agency's purview.

You may wish to reach out to the Federal Reserve Consumer Help website. This website is the Federal Reserve's central resource for consumers who have a complaint or question about a bank. With the FRCH, the Federal Reserve has consolidated and streamlined its consumer complaint and inquiry process. Consumers may call a toll-free number (888-851-1920 or 877-766-8533 TTY), fax (877-888-2520). These representatives will put consumers in touch with the appropriate Reserve Bank or agency to address their complaint or inquiry.

It is important to note that the Federal Reserve supervises bank holding companies, state banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System, certain savings, cooperative, and foreign banks, and certain corporations and affiliates. Complaints filed against member banks are investigated by the twelve regional Federal Reserve Banks. The Reserve Bank will investigate each issue raised in your letter and ask the bank involved for information and records in response to your complaint. The Reserve Bank will analyze the bank's response to your complaint to ensure that your concerns have been addressed and will send a letter to you about our findings. If the investigation reveals that a federal law or regulation has been violated, you will be informed of the violation and the corrective action the bank has been directed to take.

I hope this information is helpful.

Sincerely,
Board Staff

Hi,

I have suffered greatly due to the actions of my former employer, Wells Fargo. There is a government sponsored cover up that I believe you are aware of. I am suffering intensely and am disabled and severely ill as a result of what has happened. I do not want to oppose Wells Fargo any more and I don't want to create any issue for you or the DOJ.

I am however suffering very horrifically and if something isn't done to help me I am going to die. I ask that you, as a regulator, work with Wells Fargo to get Wells Fargo to do something to help me. I need money so that I can fend for myself in life. My disability prevents me from making an income and from fending for myself in life. I suffer terribly everyday. I did nothing to deserve any of this. I was an outstanding employee for the bank and worked very hard for it.

I understand and thank you. I was hoping to go outside of the business as usual processes. This bank has massacred me with crime, including having me kidnapped. That is not business as usual. But I do understand and I thank you for your help.

Dear Leonard Williams, III:

Thank you for your most recent correspondence in which you allege that Wells Fargo Bank arranged to have you abducted.

Although the Federal Reserve Consumer Help website is the Federal Reserve's central resource for consumers who have a complaint or question about a bank, we are unable to assist you directly regarding an alleged kidnapping.

For your information, the crime of kidnapping is a felony, punishable by up to 30 years in prison, I suggest that you contact your local law enforcement authorities and your state's Office of the Attorney General for assistance.

I hope that you are able to resolve this matter.

Sincerely,
Board Staff

I sent a communication the other day. It was misconstrued as having to do with my health. I am asking for help with a series of vicious crimes committed by Wells Fargo. Wells Fargo had me kidnapped and committed a slew of crimes following that event. I am sorry to ask for things that are not in your purview. I desperately need help. That was my motive. I am not sure who I am supposed to report it to when this bank commits vicious crimes against me and then the government covers it up. I am not sure whose purview that is under.

Thank you for your reply and this is just clarification. I am kindhearted man who has been massacred.
