My little woman is traveling to go see her family. I think it is her mom and dad. I'm not sure who else. She can afford to do things now. She's had a great month this month. I paid her a good bit more than twice what she makes at both of her main jobs. I told her that I will have to tone it down a little bit next month and then tone it down a lot more going forward after that, until I get something out of my fight. She is so happy. Her 20th birthday was this month.

I thought maybe you would find that funny. I found it looking for some other screenshots that are relevant to my case. My little woman in the Philippines is living the high life. It makes me so happy. Her family didn't have to do without anything this month, and she bought her brother a phone and sent "allowance" money to two to four of her other siblings. I didn't catch if the second set of screenshots that she sent me were for the same two siblings that she already mentioned or for two additional siblings. This is on top of the phone that she bought for herself. She got her nails done the day before yesterday and she was back at the mall last night. She is used to having such lack. I will post a picture of her.

I want to get a load of money and give most of it to her, and then I can die. I don't like life anymore. It is somehow crushing my soul to feel happy. I would feel the most happy if I could give her a huge amount of money and then lay on my deathbed knowing that she will be happy for the rest of her life. I have no idea if she would care that I say this to you. Probably not. I don't think she cares what I do at all. I'm too good a thing in her life.

I have a few other people that I want to give money to. I have a friend on Twitter for whom I want to hire a team of private investigators. She was brutally attacked by this horrible man, and she knows of at least one other victim. The police in the UK seem to not be good at understanding things like this, and his charges got dropped. He's guilty as sin and they could make a case against him if they tried.

I could list some others. It's not a huge huge list. This woman on twitter, the alternate plan is for me to cyber stalk him and go covert and build a case. I'm quite confident that I could do it, even though he's a long, long ways away.

I don't know what I'm going to do with my life. Things are much much better, but I have been destroyed and it's about to get worse when I become widely known. I don't need attention on me. I don't need to be widely known. I like my new friend and her happiness brightens my day more than anything. I am just too damaged though. Life is too hard for me.

I ask that this email be redacted if ever released to the public. The details about my friend on twitter could impede her getting justice and expose her to potential harm.

I'm sure that not much of this makes sense to you.

Re: My disparager

To: Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

I'm feeling bad about my worker in Pakistan. He's always sending me sales pitches and telling me how bad he needs money. He lowers the price quite often. On the round of work before this last one, he told me to just name my own price and send him the work. He said he'd work for anything and came from a poor family. I couldn't do it. I took his last quote that he gave me before the one where he said he'll work for anything. Told him that I would pay him that, gave him half the work, and told him that I'd be back when I put together the other half. By the time that I had the other half ready, I decided that I would take the very first quote he gave me, before he started lowering the price. That quote, I assumed, was a little ambitious for him.

And I told you wrong. I remember now. I couldn't put the work together and he kept telling me how bad he needed work. So I paid him for the work upfront and told him that he could do it when I was able to put it together. The total he quoted me was $24. I paid him $10 one week and then $10 more the next week. Then when I had the work ready for him, he owed me the work and I owed him $4. I told him that after he was done I would pay him the $40 he originally asked for. So he owed me the work and I owed him $20.

He's been desperate again, and I'm running out of money fast. I need a lot of very expensive medical tests and treatment. It's going to put a massive dent in me very fast, in the near term future. I sent him a lowball offer and he was more than happy to take it. I decided that I would up what I paid him by 20%. So I told him that. That's been about 3 days ago. He was extremely happy, but I've been thinking about this, and he is getting paid next to nothing. I had to think of how much time that it would take me to do this, and I mean this poor young man is working himself to death. So when he gets back to me with the work, I'm going to bump him up again.

It's an odd thing, but this is how I am. He was happy, very happy, to take my lowball. Then I upped his pay and sent him the work and he thanked me profusely. It seems like a win/win from every direction, and I think a lot of people would just go with it. For that matter, I'd say half or more of people wouldn't have upped his pay 20% like I did. But I want him to get something for his work.

He will be overjoyed to get more money, when he gets back with the work.

My little woman is starting a small business with the money I am sending her on the 12th. I care so much for her and I hope that I don't end up ripping her heart out. I'm such a difficult person. I ask for so much out of life and it is terrible what this can do to people.

He either rents these computers or he has multiple people helping him or both. He sends me screenshots of information he is missing, and they are from different computers, I just noticed. I have one from a windows 11 based machine and several that look like windows 7 or vista.

My little woman continues to live the high life. She got her hair done the other day. Looks real nice. She is full of smiles and says she misses me really badly. I don't talk to her as much when I'm having better times. I've got to do something with this fight. I'm running out of money fast. The day I win my fight will be the start of yet another nightmare, I am very afraid. I don't want to win every bit as much as I want to win. It's a terrible situation, but this fight is all that I know, all that I have, and all that I have cared about for years.

I try my best not to be woe is me to my little woman but I can't help it sometimes. I try to be tougher when I talk to her, but it's an act because I don't want to run her off. I lost control a little bit today and I'm going to freak her out. But it's a catch 22, because this is my reality. If she's ever going to be a regular part of my life, this is it. This is how it is to live with me. I am constantly suffering and I get mad when people speak to me a lot of the times, because when people speak to me at times that I have not planned, it causes me a lot of distress and gives me a helpless feeling.

I do my appointments with my therapist on computer. Same with my medication provider. Their appointments are scheduled and I can get ready for them and it isn't too taxing. It would probably never occur to them that I get extremely distressed from people talking to me. But most of the time, I need people to leave me be and to not interfere with my day. If someone spontaneously talks to me, say asks me a question or starts talking about something about their day, it causes me terrible distress and it causes me to experience my handicap. I can feel the brokenness of my brain very intensely on a lot of the times that people do that. I become completely overloaded.

I'm going to have to break up with my little woman. We have some tiny problems here and there, and it's too much work for me. It takes energy and effort to be in a relationship like this and I'm just not able to do it.

I saw it coming that my handicap would get in the way. Any romantic relationship that I'm in sort of has to be all about me, except for the money that I provide. This is because of my handicap and the limitations it imposes. A woman who is with me would have to put her normal emotions and inclinations aside constantly. It would be repeated sacrifices the whole time that she is with me.

It's not really realistic for me to have a relationship. By design, all I will ever get for any long period of time is some woman who uses me for my money. That's because that's all that I have to offer.

I can't go anywhere. I have to avoid people because of my condition. I have a list of limitations like this. Any woman who lives with me would not be allowed to ever get angry with me. This is an unreasonable requirement. It's not like they have a choice. It's just not doable for me to have a relationship in this condition.

I don't know how for this situation to be over when I suffer every single day and when I need a very large amount of money just to be able to live.

I will need to pay people to cook and clean for me for the rest of my life. I will also need to pay people to drive me places. I will need to pay people to shave my face and my hair. I will need to buy a very big house to live in. When it deteriorates, I will need to buy another one. I don't need a mansion, not exactly. It depends on your standards for what that word means. I just need a house where every room is very large. This will allow the furniture to be spread out with big distances between everything. Constricted spaces and clutter tax and paralyze my mind and make my impairment worse. Then I will need to buy a car every 3 to 5 years, even though I won't be driving myself places much. If I have a woman, which seems to be something that isn't doable, she will want me to take care of her, so I will have to buy her nice things and make a life for her.

My little woman from the Philippines is going to want a bunch of kids, if we stay together. I already see that coming. I doubt that I will do that. I do not like the idea of having kids because I care about kids more than anything and I cannot bear the thought of letting my children suffer. What this means in practical terms is that if I have children, I will be tethered to living. At all times, I will have no choice but to live, no matter how much I suffer, for the sake of my children. It is a horrifying thing, to think of how life could get and me not have an option out of it. But if any woman does talk me into this, I will have to take care of my children, and I cannot make a can of soup. The bottom line is that pretty much all I will have in life is what is given to me, and it's obvious who ought to do the giving- the people who did this to me.

This is the bare minimum, and doesn't factor in that I need to offset this suffering. My brain has been damaged and it causes terrible suffering. It makes life not worth living. It makes me crave death constantly. Even in the extreme case, where I get the most I have asked for or more, I will find it hard to find the will to live for a good part of the time.

I am in a position now, where I am very worried about our country. At the same time I need justice. I am also concerned for the justice department and how this situation is probably causing you all kinds of stress and frustration. I worry about Wells Fargo too, at least at times. I do want Wells Fargo to fix its business. I would hate to see that not happen and I don't want to cripple them to the point that they can't do that. For my own sake, I am absolutely horrified, at least most of the time, about the prospects of me becoming widely known, which is exactly where this is going on the current route that I'm on. I don't know what else to do but to continue my fight. Im at a loss for other options. What has been done to me is terrible. I'll add that I've got enough to knock the living hell out of this bank, and by the time it is said and done, I just might do it. It will require me to be widely known, which is my worst nightmare and is especially my worst nightmare in the condition that I am in. If I do that, I'll ask the world to have mercy on the bank, after the bank makes it right for me. This assumes that the world cares, which I think a lot of it will. The story I have to tell is the story of a very kindhearted person who worked very hard his whole life and who was then massacred in a very cruel fashion, over absolutely nothing. It's actually even more than that, too. There are profound lessons to be learned from the story that I have to tell, for individuals and also for societies around the world. You will see what I mean if it comes to that. I will get more than my 15 minutes of fame, and my life will be even more over than it already is. I will have accomplished something, however, and that will be satisfying. I'm going to be thinking about what the hell I'm going to do. This situation is not what I did. It is what they did. Their actions created this.

It will take me at least another month to get everything ready for the media, before I go to whatever reporter I'm going to use. I've got 2 from WSJ, 1 from NYT, 1 from Bloomberg News, 1 from LA Times, and I'd have to think of who else I've talked to. Washington Post had assigned me a reporter at one time, then it fizzled out. These are people who I have their number and/or email, and have talked to, and who recognize me. I've got other TV networks, magazines, and things of this sort where someone has responded to me but I don't know their name. I had CNBC on the line for several days a while back, but then my explanations of how I figure stuff out got too far out there. At least that's what I think happened. for whatever reason, they no longer respond but it appears that my emails to them do get read (I put links that I can track in them, and someone/something clicks them). They stopped responding to my signal chat and then eventually their signal line was terminated or something. NBC news appears to have a bot and/or some people who don't get paid much reading their tips. They read everything that I send them, but I had a friend test them out by sending a "news tip" that was just a single period, and as soon as they came online the next time, they read her message, not long after they read mine (I can get a timestamp on the read receipts).

The month timeline is overly ambitious and extremely not likely to happen. I think it is more likely to be 3 to 4 months. That assumes I don't change course at some point. I'm a wreck and I need something out of this fight and I just keep on the same track that I'm on, in terms of my day to day life. It's a constant battle to escape feelings of torment, and what makes me feel better is to get something done and in particular to do something that advances my fight. But I'll be thinking and hopefully we can find a way out of this that minimizes the hell for all involved.

It seems like my little woman is happier with me than I thought. I said that we were having problems, but it appears to possibly be all in my head. She's such a sweetheart. If she moves here, I worry that she will get stolen from me. She's young and likes to do young people stuff like go to clubs and dance. I won't be able to do that, due to my condition and the need for me to not be around people.

I hate this suffering and it bothers me how the other side doesn't seem to be interested in the truth. You've changed somewhat, it seems, although I cannot tell if this is another bluff or tactic. Still yet, you seem to be in a mentality of wanting to dodge the consequences of your actions and not really caring if your actions are what has caused me such damage (and they for sure are). It's not consistent with an ethos of wanting to "do the right thing."

I hate this situation so bad. I hate what has been done to me.

What the hell to make of my little woman though? I've never been so genuinely confused by someone's behavior in my life. I am leaning far towards that she is just too busy. She's a workaholic because she lives in a poor country and her family has to do without. She has big goals for her family, about wanting her siblings to go to school and stuff like this.

When I first met her, she was already working 7 days a week. She probably hasn't had more than 2 or 3 days off in the past 2 years. And now what I'm noticing is she's getting up at 3 in the morning to do work, after she goes to bed at 11 pm or later

- the above is a message I sent a friend in a conversation earlier. Sometimes I can't figure people out. Usually I am being gaslighted. I think that would be the case if I compiled examples and looked into them.

I am very susceptible to being emotionally manipulated. That's what I've found over the years. My dad played mind games with me for over 8 years. He did this over and over, and it never worked. Most often I would know exactly what he was doing, as soon as he does it. I would know his exact thought process, in real time. I'd be thinking what he's up to and what he's thinking, to myself, as he is talking. There were other times that I'd have to guess at his end game, but I still knew roughly what he's up to. In those instances, it's possible that he had no end game for me to sense. He's just moving ahead one step at a time. He can decide his next move when he gets there. When he got sick though and switched to emotional manipulation, he pulled my heart strings with ease.

It was like having a relationship with him was not much else than torture. That's how I started to feel. His manipulation attempts for that first 8 years got him nowhere, but it ripped me to pieces that my own father would do this to me. It hurt worse and worse as time went on. Then all of the sudden, when I've already had more than I can take, he's deathly ill and he turns it up 1,000 notches. God what murder it was.

I got off on a tangent, but I'm sad about my little woman. I'm not cut out for conflicts and misunderstandings like this, not in my condition. People do not understand how severely damaged I am. Every day that I'm alive is another miracle and I suffer more than 99.9% of people can begin to imagine.

If I make a lower offer or try to settle this outside of the public eye, it is likely going to require getting my little woman back. I wouldn't count on it if I were you. I'd be expecting an outcome where you're in the news and I'm pressing for a criminal prosecution of the bank and the other terms I mentioned. I am extremely upset with you.

I have offered win/wins over and over. You have repeatedly manipulated me into thinking that you are concerned for me, only to turn around and mine my communications for info you can use in dishonest and cruel behavior against me. You don't want to split the pie. $10 billion would have gotten you off the hook. It sounds like a lot, but it is in lieu of prosecuting the bank and closing its doors forever, maybe 300 to 10,000 years in prison time to go around, and the huge settlement I would get in a fair trial (which you have prevented me from and will continue to prevent me from getting).

My prison time estimate is just winged but factors in the potentially thousand+ HIPAA violations involved.

If these people at this bank did this to someone else, would they have an honest conversation, like I asked for? I don't think they would. We'd have another criminal massacre of another innocent person and the justice department running a cover-up with state sponsored crime, all the for purpose of the people at Wells Fargo being deities. They don't make mistakes and if you try to get them to say that they do in an honest conversation, you have committed the most unpardonable sin conceivable, in the eyes of the Justice Department. There is no behavior that is too despicable or indecent to be used in enforcing Wells Fargo's deity status. There is no price that is too much for everyone else to pay, and there is not a single millimeter of the earth that doesn't ultimately exist for the purpose of serving Wells Fargo's interests and defending the deity status of the people who run it. This is the worldview that is indicated by your rotten behavior and your cruelty.

“My therapist helps me a lot. I have been having 2 or 3 appointments a month with her”

- Sometimes she only has 1 availability for the next month. Then what we do is I take every single one that opens up. She has people cancel. There may be months where I only see her once, and there may also be months where I've seen her 4 times. There was one time that 3 appointments were canceled or became available all of the sudden, and I took all 3. Or it might have been that I already had 1 and 2 came open. It seems like that it was 3 new ones that opened up and I already had one.

My current medication management provider is top notch and so kind. He cares about me a lot. He is a motivation to keep living that factors in. It would break his heart if I were found dead one day, after all he did to help me. So I've got a top notch team put together. Things were going so good for me. Now you've taken my little woman and my mother has taken all of my money and my soul is crushed. I am in such despair and am reeling from the effects of this cruelty.

I made some audios earlier that I might not even send to you. If you listened to them, I might sound like I'm doing fine. That's how it sounds to me, when I listen to my voice on these audios. Do not be surprised if I am found dead at any time, in the near or medium term future.

I'm doing a little better today. I don't know why I get worse end then better from one day to the next. I have this thing where I have a feeling of being under attack, and it feels like my heart is about to explode and that I'm about to break. When this thing where I'm about to break starts getting amped up, for some reason it causes me to have an overwhelming drive to murder my mother. I can feel it, that if I am terrorized any more, I will break and I will murder my mother in her sleep. I'm also extremely amped up and upset about losing my little woman. You people are horrible.

But then what happens is I have days where I don't feel so under attack, and it's actually usually like day singular. I don't think I've had 2 consecutive days like this. My heart won't feel like it's going to explode on those days, at least parts of them.

I cannot make any connection as to what drives this change, from one day to the next.

Now I'm against the wall and may not be able to afford the medical treatment that I need. I hope you burn in hell. My little woman was the only good thing that I have.

My therapist said that, at some point, she would like us to talk about "moving on." This was about 4 sessions ago. She doesn't understand, or didn't then, just how badly I am damaged. "Moving on" is not an option, not without getting a load of money out of this fight. I will literally end up dying in the street. That's the medium term outcome for me. It depends on how fast I run out of social security money and how long my mother lives or is able to work.

My money was all that I had to save my life, and I gave my little woman at least $1,000, if I were to estimate, and now you have taken her away. It makes me hurt so much and so mad. I didn't anticipate my mother going to town on ATM machines. That has murdered me that much more. Every time she asks me for money it feels like an act of cruelty and makes me feel like I want to die really badly. I never turn her down. I give her my debit card so that she can get the money. The purpose is to avoid any remote chance of an in-person conflict, because I will end up in prison or institutionalized for life. That's my worry. I have terrible feelings towards my mother, but I would still cry so hard and feel so bad for the rest of my life, if she died in an argument with me. It is a terrible outcome.

And I have been damaged so badly that there is a big limit on how much I will be able to "move on." In any circumstance. Getting stuck on the traumatic event(s) is part of PTSD. I am pretty sure that I have read this. My case is so extreme and the resulting brain damage is so bad, that I will never escape this for more than a handful of hours at a time. Even that is hard. Most of the time I find it nearly impossible to not think about what has happened to me for as little as 90 seconds at a time. It dominates my life, right down to just about every second.

And another thing is there is a sort of compulsive element to it. Not exactly a compulsion, but there is this strange thing where I'm not interested in disconnecting. It is like I have intrusive memories at times, and those are pure hell. But outside of that, I don't have a lot of desire to talk about anything else. It is not something that I can help. I am trapped in this badly damaged brain. It's not like I make a conscious decision to not move forward. It's like there is some drive that I have no control over, and it pulls me in with this huge power. Kind of like a gravity. If someone told me that I needed to forget about it and started being forceful, I would get extremely distressed. It would be horrible.

I know, and I have known for a very long time, that if I got the right type of brain scan, that would show the damage I have sustained, and the doctor ordering the scan was an experienced expert, he'd come back saying "I have never seen anything like this."

But back to dying in the street, I literally feel impaired by even thinking of making a can of soup. I cannot think through all of the steps involved. I don't have the mental power to do it. I do know one trick that will allow me to think all of the way through it, and I think this trick would be illuminating to a well versed neurologist. I won't give you the whole thing, but if I picture myself in a really big house, not a mansion, but maybe a 3,500 to 5,000 sq ft house with a big, wide open living room, with plush furniture that is spread out with a lot of distance from one piece of furniture to the next, with the furniture and the house being very clean, like spotless. And then having a huge kitchen, with a big, long white rectangular table.

I can't think about it anymore. That was starting to get overwhelming, but there are times that I can finish out that imagination exercise, all of the way to the end where I have a hot bowl of soup.

If I try to imagine making a can of soup in this apartment, I get overwhelmed very very fast. But the elements that change, with there being huge wide open spaces, and the rest of the elements in my other imagination exercise, there is some clue in there about what is wrong with me.

For sure, I have very significant, I'd say severe is the right word, neurological damage.

I beat you people to death. The way to get me to not beat you to death is to stop doing cruel things to me, like running your trap to my little woman. I have no mercy on you, because you have no mercy on me. You have no mercy on me, because you have failed to have mercy on yourself. You have made a mistake. You have made a lot of mistakes. You have went into a mode of denying reality, to avoid admitting that you have made a mistake. It is this state of denying reality that makes you act the way that you do. You fight and fight and fight against reality, and the stakes continually go up.

There are all kinds of reasons to have mercy on yourself. You are only human. My healthcare records will confuse you. This is a hard situation for you to deal with. We are, at least as you see it, up against the end of the world. It is ok to just admit that you made a mistake and to have mercy on yourself for making it. The rest of the world will have mercy on you, because all of those people also know what it's like to only be human. It is easy for people to have mercy on you for making a mistake. It is not so easy to get people to have mercy on you for being cruel to a handicapped person.

I come across as a real hard ass in a lot of these emails. It can be misleading. When I ride in a car, I panic constantly. If it's at night, I will sometimes lose control and start to scream curse words as loud as I can. When I go to the bar to get chicken tenders, I sometimes tremble when I talk to others. I start thinking that I need weapons, sometimes, when I'm walking down the sidewalk at the complex where the bar is at. I constantly anticipate someone coming from some direction and belittling or harassing me. I feel threatened and think to myself that I need to never come here again without bringing a hunting knife. I never bring a hunting knife. I know better than to put myself at risk like that. But once I get there, that's what I think.

You have destroyed a human being for absolutely no reason, and you need to cut your losses.

I miss my little woman and I want you to burn in hell. I wouldn't talk to her if she messaged me, as of now. I have decided that I will never have another girlfriend again, because of your cruelty. My problem is that Wells Fargo is in my life. This has been my problem for 6 years. I loved my little woman and she loved me. Now you've corrupted her with your influence, and under no circumstances can I ever have her back. I don't want anyone who has ever heard this banks filth in my life, and I will mourn for the little woman that I used to know until the day that I die.

I will not lose totally though. My most important battle will be won. One day I will take my last breath, and I will take it as a person who is not like you. There is no worse fate than spending as much as one second of your life being like the people at this bank or the conmen and murderers at the Justice Department. There is no price you could pay me for even one second of this, and you people live this for every second of your existence.

The difference that I have with you is that I spent my life caring about what is right and I put effort into being a moral human being. You have nice cars and nice homes, and I am a murder victim. It doesn't cause me to remotely second guess this. Pile your wealth and your privilege to the moon. There will still be nothing worse than being like you.

Wells Fargo is a coward that hides behind Jenny. The justice department is a coward that is scared of Wells Fargo. The Justice Department is Wells Fargo's bitch. The Justice Department and Wells Fargo are the most dangerous people on earth, due to their depravity, their complete lack of decency, their cold hearts, their lack of a soul, their right to kill, and their vast resources and power.

You are the worst people ever to walk the face of the earth, and when this kindhearted man who is talking to you right now dies at your hands, your cold blooded cruelty against him will be your legacy and it will never be forgotten.

I felt like that I would die without ever knowing what it's like to be in love, because of what Wells Fargo did to me. And this is the cruelty you visit upon me. I will never have another girlfriend. I don't want one anymore, after what you've done. I am a peculiar person, things have to be the way that I need them to be, and they were until you messed it up. My despair is very high right now. I will miss my little woman for the rest of my life, and I am going to die. It is a catch 22. I can settle outside of the public eye and not get nearly enough money to make life worth living, or I can settle in the public eye and get something that would be more fair, but being in the public eye would destroy my life. I can't think of anything worse. I want the people who did this to suffer. That's another thing. It crushes my soul, the idea that they will not have to pay.

I do not commit crimes against disabled people.
I do not defraud the social security administration
I do not take a disabled man's medication away.
I do not abuse people who tell me they are dying in my sleep.
I do not have contempt to the powerless, the poor, and the mentally ill.
I do not lie about people behind their backs and then be too big of a pussy to say it to their faces.
I do not go character assassinate kindhearted men by deliberately lying and saying they are a "psychopath" behind their backs.
I do not abuse facilities intended for the most vulnerable members of society to coverup the crimes of indecent Wall Street thugs, and then let money intended for poor people be used to pay it.
I do not invade people's privacy and then discriminate against them and treat them cruelly over things they cannot help.
I do not have people repeatedly kidnapped.
I do not commit fraud.
I do not induce others to commit fraud.
I do not lie to millions of people by completely misrepresenting who I am, as if I reside in a fantasy land that is designed to flatter me.
I do not steal from Medicaid to pay for the crimes of a $1.7 trillion bank.
I am not above the law.
I do not have the ability to grant to others a condition of impunity, merely by involving them in my crimes.
I do not have the right to kill.
I do not have the right to rape.
I do not have the right to commit crimes against children.
I do not have the right to commit arson.
I do not have the right to rob people.
I do not have the right to vandalize buildings.
I do not have the right to assassinate the pope.
I am not the world's only superpower.
The world's only superpower isn't my whore.

This is part 1 of a checklist. Why don't the demon possessed clowns at the Justice Department do this checklist for themselves and for Wells Fargo and get back with me about who is the "dangerous" party or parties among us.

Please try to provide an answer that is truthful and that could be believed by someone who isn't from the sadistic twilight zone from hell that spawned Pennywise the Clown and the United States Department of Justice.

Send my little woman your answers and a detailed analysis, and do it without lying this time.

My money is all that I have to save my life, and I gave so much of it to my little woman, because I cared for her so much. I wanted to be the one who takes care of her family and makes her happy. She cares so much for her family. What is it like, to be a murderer? I will never know, but it is something that you live daily.

The point of my vacation was to relax and think of a way to work it out, but I want my little woman back.

“ I wanted to buy my little woman a motorcycle. It would be such a great surprise. It was her dream. I would have been so happy to see her reaction.”

- I'm so sad.

I have made you some audios. I am probably going to make more. These will be in lieu of my letter, in the event that I don't finish it. I think I probably will finish it. We need to come to a solution. I am extremely mad at you over what you've done with my little woman, but I haven't addressed that in these audios and I do not intend to. I mainly am getting across some of what I've come to understand in this situation and trying to communicate that to you. I didn't do a single thing to cause any of this. Not one drop of the responsibility for this situation falls on me. You have been horrible people to me. --

Today has been a day of terrible impairment for the most part. It seemed like it might be a good day at first. I was able to take a shower. But it's been downhill from there. I've been playing video games for 5 minutes at a time and surfing the web on my iPad. I want to finish my letter. I'm not sure how long it will take me, at this rate. I have days that are exceptionally productive, usually when I'm trying to get my sleep turned around and take an extra adderall. That is what helps me the most. I don't get consecutive days like that though. If I did, I could have this letter done in a week. It's still sitting there at 25 pages. I wrote half a sentence a few days ago.

I still feel bad about my little woman. It bothers me extremely badly. I am, however, probably going to get past this thing where I will never try to find a woman again. This is if I live, and there may be other variables that come into play. I will almost certainly live.

I think the impairment I am having is connected to my mother being in the apartment.

My little woman was the only good thing that I had, and you took her away from me. What is it like, to be a murderer? I will never know.

And I miss my little woman. I wish someone would fly an airplane into the side of your headquarters there in Washington. It would serve you right.

I sent the below text to my therapist, on April 20th, 2023. Right about the time you were actively scamming to run off my little woman.

"I sound cynical, when speaking of the US DOJ (who is the USA), but I actually think that it is very likely that they have saw the error of their ways and want to make this right. I also do not want there to be a fire started to put out. I want to help the US DOJ keep this situation under control. I hope that my intuition about them is right. "

My little woman from the Philippines had a baby. I am very happy for her. I do not feel the least bit bitter, or sad for myself, or have any other feeling other than being happy for her. I worry about her and her family, a lot, due to the climate crisis. Less well off countries do not have nothing like the infrastructure that we have. All it would take would be one extreme weather event to really ruin her and her family's life. They have very limited means to recover.
