

The audio is a recording of myself and Jenny discussing this situation. I describe the audio in my complaint. The intent, at the time I am recording it, is that this will be played to my doctor. I want my doctor to opine on Jenny's claim that I am "paranoid". This call took place on April 16th, 2019.

You can notice some things here:

1. Jenny's explanations are frequently nonsense. For instance, she confirms that she believes that it is "impossible" for "people inside Wells Fargo to talk to people outside of Wells Fargo."
2. I am completely coherent and logical. I am also kind of lighthearted. In the days that follow, Jenny and I argue, and it gets to the point that I am screaming at Jenny. For this call, I'm cool as a cucumber.

It is also humorous how I am talking to my friend with the demeanor of a police interrogator ("you are going into flat out denial", etc.). I am more than a little eccentric.

3. Jenny keeps making suspect requests. She wants to talk to my doctor in private. Then she is preoccupied that I call the crisis line.
4. Notice the repeated claims that I am "paranoid". Here she gives away her strategy for getting out of this. This is, of course, a strategy authored not by Jenny, but by Wells Fargo.

At the time we are having this call, I do not realize that Wells Fargo is behind the privacy violation. This is why I never ask her any questions about "did Wells Fargo put you up to this", etc.

Tuesday, May 15, 2018

T

Jenny!!!!!!!!!!

3:58 PM

I miss you!!!

What are you up to?

Hows work?

3:58 PM

I miss you too. Work is ok we have been in meetings all day for a merger

4:00 PM

How is work for you

4:02 PM

T

Work slow down a lil bit now, but most of the time super busy

Text message referenced at end of call.