Re: Complaint against Wells Fargo

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>

Hi,

I would like to discuss my complaint and what is being done with it. I now view this as a matter of public interest that far exceeds my personal situation. I wish to emphasize that I want to engage constructively with all parties who have any interest in this matter. Is it possible that we could set up a time to talk? Please note that there is a possibility for any reply I am given to be turned over to the media. I will do my best to respect the privacy of others, but as this is a matter of public interest I must balance this with the needs and rights of the public at large.

My life has been destroyed. It is difficult for me to determine how severely and for how long I will be disabled. It is a real possibility that I am disabled for life. This is again a consequence of asking Wells Fargo to engage in the simple moral action of telling the truth. If this kind of victimization is something that will be tolerated, it is appropriate for the public to know. I have attached a print out of my conversation with my last manager at WFB Courtney Luce. I ran a programming script on this chat that enhances the chat by adding message numbers. You can see on message 2044 one characteristic example of an offer for a simple discussion under no consequences. I had made dozens of similar requests to other employees. I have also attached the contact info for my doctor, if you need to contact him for any reason.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
