In dire condition

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>

You are quite clearly my friend. I must reassert that i tell the truth essentially every time. I am the one who has been honest this entire time. I only fudge the truth when I'm being victimized, so that I can catch them.

I say this for the event that people question what I'm saying. This fight has worn me down and I'm teetering on the edges of death in response to the stress I had over debating with my mother. I was teetering similarly when I had discovered more healthcare fraud. This time is worse and it seems clear that I am getting weaker.

I have been near death all day today. My system is wavering. I need my mother and Atrium health to do exactly what I ask of them. I asked my mother for help and I may end up asking atrium.

I know exactly what I need. I do not need to go to a hospital and going to a hospital will in fact kill me. I need to recover in my apt from this and I can. I just can't have people fight with me anymore. I am fighting for my life and if people fight back it will kill me. Me and Wells Fargo have a good chance of surviving if I can recover. I am at risk of dying from natural causes as a result of what has happened. I don't fully know how this works but I know for sure that this is the case. Everything that I am saying is gospel truth.

So what i need is for atrium health and my mother to not fight with me when I ask them for help and one more instance of health care fraud will kill me. No more healthcare crimes.
