Another apology

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>

I am deeply sorry for the offensive things I have typed in emails and said in those audios. I believe that you are my friend and I want to be your friend. I want to be Wells Fargo's friend too, but they do not seem to have a heart. I tried to believe that they did, but they are letting me and my family suffer.

I had assumed that this may be a top priority for your agency, due to the economy and Wells Fargo's status in it. That is why I send you so much stuff. I thought that you would find it worthwhile, and I need your help.

I am not the only one who needs your help, however, and I am now going to account for the circumstance that this is not a top priority and stop filling your inbox so often. I am sorry for any appearance of selfishness that I have given in behaving this way.

I am going to have to contact the media to try to get some help. I'm not sure what the public can do or the news but my life is about to be over.

Thank you for your time and thank you from the bottom of my heart for helping me.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
