About this situation

To: Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov

I need you to help me. I have suffered too long. I have been good to you in helping you. I told you about the Facebook scam, to save you from any hoo rah that comes from that. I try to see your side of this, meaning the side of the people on the other end. I know that I have had some unbecoming behavior, but I am severely ill and suffer extremely. Some things I cannot help.

I have been treated cruelly and I have been victimized repeatedly. I ask you to make it right for me. Make something good happen for me, so that I get some justice. I am a ruined human being. My brain is broken and I will never function as I once did.

I try to hard to see these people in a better light, and at times, I do. I want to see them as good people who have made some terrible mistakes. I do my best to see good in them.

I am terrified about my life. There is so much misery ahead of me that I can't take it. They could make this right. I will do whatever is needed. You just tell me. If the public has to know, we can make this a good thing.

I have suffered terribly as a result of my decision to work at this bank. It was such a good job for so long. It fueled my new life. But in the end, it was the worst decision I ever made. That's the ending of the story we have at the moment. My life is destroyed and I am permanently handicapped.

I don't know what the deal was with AU girl. I cared so much for her. I thought I was getting help. I would rather die than live the life I have before me. I need you to help me very badly. If they make it right, they will be the good guy again. My new life will go on and it will go on in a way that I can be happy about.

If they had a plan with AU girl, that I would have a life with her, whatever they had planned would be a good ending for me. I don't want a life where I am dependent on her for money and my livelihood. I would rather have an option where i can live independently if she decides she doesn't like me anymore or if I need to leave her for some reason.

With that said, anything is better than what I have before me. I will take what they can give.

I am very concerned about how my character is perceived. I have been nothing but honest and genuine with everyone involved. I have tried very hard to do right by you. I have tried very hard to do right for so many years. I am a very good person.

I ask that you please see the good in me.

I will attach a conversation with the owner of a children's ministry in Pakistan. You will see that I donated to this woman's ministry for needy children. 2 churches I contacted about her turned her down. 1 church had the excuse that they "are just a small church and cannot afford much." I can't remember the other churches explanation. It is maybe halfway in the chat that you will see my screenshot of my donation. 1 person facing serious financial problems gave more to her needy children's ministry than 2 churches and this woman's 120 Facebook friends combined.

She befriended westerners, primarily from the US and Canada, and asked them for money. If you look at these peoples Facebook walls, they purport to be religious fanatics with all the memes they share. When the rubber meets the road they are tightwads that report her for asking for money for her hungry children, for whom she risks her reputation, it not her safety or her life, to teach about Jesus.

She got kicked off FB for good the last time she got reported. I never got to send her any more money. She had sent me videos of her 40 children eating the chicken and noodles dish my $63 bought. also sent me videos of them singing. It made my day. Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
