I am doing things your way

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>

This is a very sad ending for me. I am not going to pursue this anymore, not in any way. I have no choice. I so badly wanted and needed help. I have been in pain for hours, with shell shock, but I have not emailed you, as I usually would have. I need my medicine from Atrium. I am going to call them Monday. Please see that I get it.

Now my main goal is to get social security ASAP. That's my only hope. I am so incredibly sad. If there is anything the people on the other end can do, please do it.

I think AU girl may have misunderstood me. I don't know if you play my audios with her. What I was saying about her is that I want to ease her suffering. The way she works is she will not tell you what she needs. She finds it hard to tell you what she needs. So the way to ease her suffering is to be very good at picking up on what she needs without her telling you. Then you do what she needs you to do. To her it may seem like magic that you know what she needs, and it will be something she really appreciates.

I care about AU girl so much. I am crying as I type this. I value and appreciate her as a person.

I'm having memories of making these last set of audios, and I had said some strange things. I don't know what I was thinking, but whatever it was it's not what it sounds like. I could never hurt anyone.

I have no choice but to give this up. The people on the other end decide what happens, and they are far more powerful than me or anyone else in the world for that matter. There is intensity behind your actions. I had tried to get things to go faster, by reaching out to the media and things like this. I am just going to get crushed with anything that I do to try to help myself.

It is utter and complete cruelty what has been done to me. I wish I would have known what the right thing to do to get help was, if there was such a thing. I am handicapped in dealing with people in a way that I cannot help. I think I made people mad over this brain scan. Whatever the case, I am done, and I am terribly, horribly sad about this outcome. I will never get over this because I will suffer for the rest of my life. You can move on though.

I want to state, one last time, all that I have done:

-I killed myself to be the best employee I could be for Wells Fargo.

-I took on the hardest work in my Dept and worked miracles

-I trained and mentored something like 20 or more analysts over the years that I worked, teaching them about credit and about my office's work

-I managed up to 12 to 16 analysts who did my work, so that the Dept didn't have to pay me or anyone else overtime

-I continued to do all of this, as my department turns against me and treats me with hurtful and cruel stigmatization, and as the management that is in place makes it harder and harder to do the great work that I was known for

Then this happened and I tried to settle it the easy way so many times. I end up reporting it all to you. In this process:

-I have told you every single action I have taken or will take, for your benefit. I tried to look out for your interests

-I got this brain scan, which cost my aunt $250 and will cost me $750. It took an extreme effort and sacrifice to get this. I went through enormous stress in this process.

-I told you about Facebook possibly having something to do with you over what happens there. I did this because I was concerned about you. I wanted you to be able to avoid anything that happens as a result. I saw us as a team and was trying to help get a good outcome for everyone.

-I have been a big man and acknowledged my role in all that occurred. I have apologized for all of my inappropriate behavior, and for my role in what occurred.

-I have offered to help Wells Fargo

-I have thought about ways that we could make this a good thing, if it ever came to light

-I have made a promise that was extremely hard to keep, and put forth enormous effort to keep it

In this process with you, I have acted in good faith to the best of my ability, as I have suffered extremely.

My incessant communication was out of my need for my suffering to end. This was hard to deal with, I am sure, and I am sorry. I could not help it. I have done my absolute best.

And so this is it, the sad and painful ending. I cannot tell you how much I hurt typing this. Please do what you can to make this easier on me. You win, just like I wanted you to win the whole time. I wanted me to win too.
