

Leonard Clinton Williams III [REDACTED]@gmail.com>

Aug 25th, 2021, 3:13 PM

Let's end this

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>

I was ready to end this and then I found out that my social security was denied. This is another massive blow to me. My records do not reflect my condition, and I will thus be cheated out of $18k to $20k in backpay, even if I am able to appeal. As I understand it, if I appeal, it will be the doctor at ss who determines if I am disabled, and if he or she finds me disabled, it means that I am disabled as of the date of that examination. So instead of $20k + $1,492 a month, I would get $1,492 a month.

I'm coming back around now, and it looks to be the case that you are not going to help me. If this is the case, this is the most ruthless and cruel thing I have ever seen. The past 2.5 years have been not much else than ruthless cruelty directed at me. I don't know why it is this way. It is heartbreaking.

I am a man of my word, and if you will just have them fill my adderall, I will drop this, I promise. I need to be able to fight for my life in Charlotte. I've got to apply for rental assistance and I've got to appeal SS decision.

I am a brutally damaged, destroyed, and handicapped man. I am all of these as a result of a terrible crime spree that hit me from every angle. I will live in terrible pain for however much longer that I live, if something doesn't change.

If atriun can work with me on my medications, there is some hope there. I am able to get a lot more done when I take extra adderall, and if they would up my dose to at least 60mg (I really need 80), I think I could possibly make my own living. I've asked for this for years. This extra olanzapine seems to repress my hyperarousal symptoms to some degree. I think that + more adderall may be the solution.

Someone needs to do something to help me, that is for sure. But please just have them fill my adderall. In the short term that will help me keep up my fight for my life in Charlotte. I can talk to them about increasing the dosage later. I will call them tomorrow about getting a script sent over to be filled.

--

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams

(980)-[REDACTED]