In re "you will never get a rest from this", I don't mean that in any sort of threatening way. What I'm saying is that if this situation is a problem for you, you can count on me focusing 100% of my energy on it every single day for however long that I live. Everyday while you're going about your business, I'm trying to get something done about this. You will always have to worry about my next move being a success.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
