Re: I'm going to die

I ask you to help me. If you would just set up a time to talk we could all work it out. I would abide by any agreement we come up with.

This apartment is a torture chamber. What I need is a place like my apartment in Charlotte. I need adderall, 60 mg. I need money to pay bills and money to pay people to do the things that I cannot do myself.

I know exactly what I need. I am telling you directly. The above would be circumstances that I could live under and be pretty happy.

It is well within your means to give me a life like the one I just describe. Human life is going to be lost as a consequence of this bank's conduct. It will have been completely preventable.

I am a completely decimated human being. People do not realize how seriously injured that I am. I need you to help me and there is no reason that I shouldn't get something out of this. Wells Fargo has enjoyed a bonanza of getting away with crime. So has atrium health. So have the mobile crisis counselors. So have them all. Novant Health made out real well on their scam. They got my poor aunts $250, for this worthless brain scan. It's getting away with it all, across the board, and the only one left empty handed is the victim.

Pick up the phone and call me. Your behavior is extremely puzzling. I can't help but think that there is some piece of the picture that you are missing. It could all be resolved with a phone call. I am very good at explaining things. The time will come when you no longer have the opportunity to make that phone call to me.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
