

Leonard Clinton Williams III [REDACTED]@gmail.com>

Oct 22nd, 2022, 6:48 PM

Re: I'm sorry

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

I really wish I could make it without getting justice. I've got a hell of a story to tell too.

In re you not replying to me, there are 2 possible reasons for this that I see. 1 is that I am on do not answer mode, big time, because my situation is the end of the world. 2 is that this is part of your scam/cover-up in handling this situation. The not replying has a function in that.

In the case it is item #2, I know exactly what you're doing and I've had that figured out for quite a long time. Somehow the way my intuition works, I can figure things like this out with extremely little effort.

There are other possibilities that I do not see as likely, so I won't even mention them.

Back to item #2, I guess there is nothing the public or others can really do to stop you, even if they know exactly what you're doing. Congress might get in the mix, and just maybe some of the public will initiate a boycott of Wells Fargo and this will compel you to reverse course.

What I can tell you, with a very high confidence, is that if this makes it to the public, you're going to get found out. Your behavior has been despicable and you probably count on my mental health history to bail you out. You don't know what you're talking about, and there are plenty of people who do.

This is the most ridiculous thing I've ever seen. You have a crime spree involving scores of felonies against one person, and the criminal's defense is "he has a history of treatment for mental illness." The DOJ buys this sickening, bigotry and prejudice based defense, and this becomes the DOJ's defense, as the DOJ sponsors more crimes against me.

Maybe you should work to have having a mental illness codified as a crime. Then you could be more clear on your position. This would also cause a flurry of mentally ill persons applying for jobs at Wells Fargo. They would need a safe haven, where the law doesn't apply and where people are allowed to commit crimes by the millions.

I've got to speculate, because you don't talk back, but in the case that my mental health history has anything to do with this, that's the case. What I just laid out quite accurate.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams

(980)-[REDACTED]