Online it is saying that Wells Fargo might be shut down

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

Even MSN is circulating this bullshit. These articles say that "federal regulators are considering a national shutdown of Wells Fargo." That's nearly verbatim. This would defy everything that I have learned about how this works since I looked into this thing with me.

If that were the case, it would be very sad to me. I would think about my office people and about all the potential that I thought the bank had and about how the customers would be hurt. I always care about the customers at every job that I have.

I have said horrible things about you online. What I say isn't too far from the truth, as far as I can tell. I am extremely unwell and for the past 2 days I have been extremely tired. The tiredness is from having to ride with my mother to get my medicine the day before yesterday. I damn near had a heart attack over and over. It is from my hyper vigilance and possibly from my heart being weakened.

I never wanted to be your enemy and this is all your fault how things have turned out. You will be found out. I put the odds at at least 95%, closer to 99%.

I asked this bank to have a conversation. They responded my hitting me with a terrorist superpower criminal assault. Then I built a case. Then I wrote a complaint and sent it to you in an email that said "I need your help and tell me how that I can help you." This is all I ever did to you.

I have trouble seeing you as good people in any sense. I don't know why anyone would do this. That doesn't mean that I won't work with you in the future if things go to shit. I want 10 billion dollars for what has been done to me. I will wish you well and wish Wells Fargo well, but I will not shake your hand, neither one of you. I want this bank to be someone else's problem. $10 billion will not make me well and I will probably not even smile. I will be mildly happy most likely, however.

Why do you do this to someone?
