I've thought about this, and most likely the L.A. Times has that signal chat history. I'm talking of the 18,000 to 25,000+ messages that I sent them, as a play by play or my horrific suffering. I will eventually find out. I keep open the possibility that I am wrong. I am perhaps wrong in a really big way. But as I see it, that signal chat is a big $ maker for them and a big liability for you.

They will cry as they read it, just like I cried when I typed so much of it. This situation needs to be addressed in a well thought out, planned, controlled, and orderly fashion. That's how you minimize the damage and keep everything together.

What we're heading towards is a situation that is much the opposite, and god only knows what's going to happen. If and when the population of the United States of America sees the horrific suffering and the cruel abuse that is detailed on that chat history, they will not sit still. People are not entirely possessed of rationality, most people aren't all that well versed in economics, and there are other factors that contribute what a chaotic scenario could unfold. It is possible that it just turns out to be another huge blow to me. People for some reason have some horrible reaction, or I don't know. I don't see any way that this could possibly happen, but I assume it is possible. How is a mystery to me.

Part of the problem for you, and also for me at this point, because I'm not looking for a shit storm either, is that this person that I am, as I have repeatedly described him to you, this is exactly who I am and it is exactly the truth. People are good at figuring out other people, and when you have me narrating my whole life and also narrating my every thought, in real time, it will be extremely apparent just how kindhearted I am, how that I have such a heart, and how I try so hard to do what is right.

It will be a compelling story, because it is, and it will make this bank appear to be as evil as evil comes, which is exactly how they are, or at least how they were to me, or at the very least how it looked and felt to me at the time and how it will look and feel to the people who read my story.

I'm getting weak again. Part of the reason I keep my fight going is that I have a sense that the thugs on the other end will try to get in the way of my peaceful death, if I decide that's what I want. I would be so extremely pissed. It pisses me off just thinking about it. It's like the point of the game is for me to always be treated cruelly, and to interfere with and not respect my wishes, as if I am not a human being with feelings and as if I do not matter.
