I'm still not shaking your hand. Dead or alive. This is directed at Wells Fargo. I may shake hands with the people at the justice department. If the people at Wells Fargo start giving me shit about not shaking their hands or they try to encourage me to shake their hands, I am likely to start to feel like a man trapped in a cage in the jungle, and I will have a desire to massacre those people. You have to always remember the condition that I'm in. Never be fooled by any temporary lightheartedness. I would much rather die than to be permanently institutionalized. My wishes have to count at some point.
