

Leonard Clinton Williams III [REDACTED]@gmail.com>

May 2nd, 2023, 2:05 AM

Re: Email for 4/29/2023

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

The thing with first republic seems to be not too big a deal. There were some panic peddlers online saying that it could set off a wave of bank failures. This situation that we're in is absolutely terrible. I can't tell you how much that I hate it.

I want to go back in time, to before I met Jenny or maybe before she conned me out of a link to my Facebook profile. I was treated as a person who matters and I didn't have a brain that is so terribly damaged. Among the outcomes I am contemplating as possible are some that are a complete nightmare on steroids for the other side. However I handle this, my intention is for outcomes of that nature to not occur and more generally to have this work out in some way that everything works out. In particular, I want to avoid any shit storm banking failure panic, end of the world, etc. outcomes. I don't want any such thing to ever cross anyone's mind. We need something that's fair to me but also is a positive step for the bank. And that's one problem we have, I have ideas of what is fair to me, but at the end of the day, there is a limit on how much better my life can get and there is ultimately nothing that can be done for me. It makes the whole thing seem purposeless. It seems like a terrible thing for people to have to go through, with the media, congress, etc. etc. etc. for the sake of me just continuing to suffer. My life would be a lot better if I had a lot of money though. I might be surprised as to how good it can get. I for sure need a very large amount of money, due to how handicapped that I am. I can't do anything. Adderall helps me. If I get my dose upped I can do more, but the problem is that I have not retained all of my abilities. I can work on my computer, type word documents, surf the internet, and things like this. More adderall increases those abilities, but I still have enormous trouble cleaning. Things like cleaning, making a can of soup, or cooking chef boyardee, more adderall just barely moves the needle. The needle moves so slightly that, in most cases, I still can't do them, pretty much not at all. I will never be able to live independently. I will have to pay people to clean my house, do my laundry, drive me to the drugstore, shave my face, all sorts of things like this, I will be paying people to do for the rest of my life.

I also need a house that is very large. Not a Mansion, not necessarily, but very large. The purpose of this is so that my furniture can be spread out, with big gaps. My bedroom can be large, with a lot of space in it and on both sides of my bed. When things are spread out and wide open, it lessens my mental paralysis.

I have found that clutter and constricted spaces have a profound paralyzing effect on my mind. It seems like constricted spaces are the worse of the two. This tiny bedroom that I'm staying in is paralyzing me very badly. I could also shave more often in my apartment in Charlotte. I moved to this apartment on November 29th, 2021. Since that time, I have shaved my face twice or at the most, 3 times. I think it is twice. Every other time I have paid a barber to shave my face. I have extreme difficulty forcing myself to shave. Most of the time I can't do it. It partly has to do with it being more complicated in the bathroom of this place.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams

(980)-[REDACTED]