My c7g.xlarge instance will hold a bunch of websites. I'm not too versed in Apache. I hope I can add rewrite rules that are specific to each site on my configuration file(s). I don't like using htaccess files. Today has been a good day in terms of symptoms. I've been down for the count for a long time. Drinking 5 hour energy earlier. I need to get my sleep turned back around. 1 am would be nice to wake up. 3am to 5am would be better.

I've still got my alternative medication provider if you start some bullshit. I've got my diagnostic stuff from the other clinic to send to them, so they can prescribe me my medications. They asked me for that. If you pull more bullshit it's going to blow my mind, but you jump the shark every time. Anything less than murdering me won't get you anywhere, and neither will murdering me.

I'm going to end up dying anyways. After you pay me, I will get every brain scan under the sun and I'll send you the results. There is something extremely bad wrong with me, and you did it. You seem to not understand, and this is mostly because you have made no effort to understand. You've done the opposite. You try to get rid of this reality with everything that you've got. It's hard to understand anything with that mindset.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
