I'm not going to hire a lawyer, at least before our negotiations are done. I will type up an agreement with my terms, and have you sign to agree to the terms of my agreement, after they are restated by an attorney who drafts a contract. There are some things that I don't know, and so I will hire a lawyer to get expert advice. I will pay them a fee. I'm not interested in paying someone 30% for a case and a fight where I did all of the work. I also do not trust you to not pay off my lawyer and have him/her work against me. I feel like I'm taking a risk by even trying to pull you into the picture out in the open, but I've got to do what I've got to do.

For money, I want $20 million immediately, and then $5 million a year, paid monthly and adjusted for inflation. I want the adjustments to mirror the current social security rules for COLA, but not tied to the social security rules as any sort of index, meaning if the social security laws are adjusted to not pay COLA or have any other change, it will not matter for me. My "index" will be the current laws, as if they are frozen in time. I will add one more qualification, that I get at least 3% per year. So if inflation is less than 3% or is negative (deflation), I still get a pay bump of 3% for any such year.

I can limit who I talk to about this. I have some things to say to my mother and also to my sister about this. I also want to have the right to talk about it to any psychologist who is providing care or support to me. I will need to keep my evidence (remember that much of my evidence consists of my healthcare records, as they are a crime scene). I will also need to keep my evidence analysis videos and evidence analysis materials. This is because of the nature of what has happened and the threat that is posed to me, when I am not allowed to explain why I think what I think. But outside of any current or future psychologist(s) and mental health services providers, and the handful of people that I mentioned, I can keep this to myself. You may wish to pay the people I have told about this some money to keep quiet. I'd say $10,000 a pop would be enough for them. I gave you a list in some of my audios from a long time ago. That list hasn't changed much. I could update it, if I thought about it. I will also add that I have to talk to this to any kind of healthcare provider, not just people treating me for mental illness or psychological maladies. This is doctors for my heart, neurologists, and anyone else who is addressing any problem or potential problem that I attribute to what has occurred since 2017 and particularly since 2021.

I feel like you've changed and are open to this being settled in a way that I can live with. I am not certain if this is another ploy to keep me on the line, however. You've conned me over and over, and I have very little information to go by.

I can live with $20 million and $5 million a year. It's not what I would call fair for me, but I still would have done good. I think that my despair will go down significantly once I get my own place too.

The alternative to this is being in the news and then me asking for something that is closer to fair, and I can justify figures in the $10s of billions quite easily. If I ask for $10 billion, it will be pennies on the dollar. I don't know when I'll have my terms written up. I've got to send you more Audios and my letter too. I was extremely impaired yesterday and life is hard. I'm also enjoying working on my website sometimes, although it does cause me horrible distress from focusing.

If you want to hire me a lawyer, for some reason, like maybe that's better for you somehow, that is fine. This whole thing is kind of like being staged, and I will play along. I'm just not interested in any business as usual negotiations, where I have a lawyer who has leverage over me. In that case, I fully expect you to pay them off and have that leverage used against me. You hiring me a lawyer would not be anything like a business as usual practice, but nothing we have done is business as usual.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
