I was just thinking about how I would like to get some money and then have a social life again. It's not doable. I will never have a social life. Someone will end up dead. I can't be around people like that. I've done well the few occasions I have went somewhere. I don't talk to many people and I sit by myself. But it's a numbers game. I do it enough and it will catch up with me. That time I went to the upscale pizza restaurant out in banner Elk, I had this instinctive thing where the first thing I do is look to see where the knives are.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
