

Leonard Clinton Williams III [REDACTED]@gmail.com>

Aug 28th, 2023, 7:03 PM

Re: Email for August 21, 2023

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

I've got a tweet that has gone viral and it is keeping me from being able to get anything at all done. I get about 40 notifications every minute or two.

I think part of your problem, which you've had for a long time, is you are in need of points in your favor. You try to get points in your favor, and it blows up in your face. I have definitively called bullshit on your narrative that I am "dangerous" and of your substantiating this claim with my illegally obtained healthcare records. The end result of that maneuver is that you just look like that much more a pack of criminals. Every person you lie to about that is just going to be another liability for you, in the event this becomes part of public knowledge. No one with any credibility will believe you.

It is the same for the rest of your stuff. Everything you have done has just blown up in your face or is likely to in the future. And I mean I have caught you in everything or almost everything that you have done. I feel that you are certainly unaware of certain things I have caught you in.

If we get in a debate about my character vs yours, you can count on me winning, unless you unfairly leverage your ability to be a bully and your ability to commit crimes with impunity. You have some real problems there, with how you act towards others. Any shot you take at me, you can expect will get fired back at you. You will take a brutal blow. It's the facts of the matter that create this situation. I have tried very hard to conduct myself in a way that is right and that I can defend. I have succeeded to a very large degree. This consistent effort, over many years, many decades at this point, results in a life that I can defend. People are very often biased against me at the outset. I'm different and people can be skeptical of people who are different, but the truth will come out. They will see it.

I also don't fully understand while you're acting as if this will be in the public eye. My proposed offer was meant to make it easy for you to make a footnote in your financial statements or do whatever you want to do. I'm asking for a razor thin slice of 1 day's revenue, once a year. That sounds easy to hide or to not even have to mention. I hate the idea of being in the public eye. It's probably worth at least a few billion to me, to not be known by anyone other than the people I want to know me.

And I beat you up. I talk to you like you're nothing or like you're fundamentally bad people or like you're inferior to me. I imagine this can be frustrating and offensive. It's like you make mistakes and I rub it in your face, with a sort of haughty but more like holier than thou attitude. I don't see you as exactly all that bad.

I need to get my adderall upped to 60 mg and I need to stop making tweets that go viral.

---

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams

(980)-[REDACTED]

---