In the past 12 hours, I have gotten 3,000 likes, between 2 different tweets, and probably over 30,000 views. From this, I got 0 downloads of my complaint. What this indicates, possibly, is that no one gives a shit, and that all those legit clicks that got were mostly people who clicked on it and then closed the window within 4 seconds. I have had flesh and blood people downloading my evidence packets this entire time. It will pop up here and there, that someone has downloaded some of them. That means there are people making it to the back. It is overall a rare thing that has become more infrequent in the past 2 months or 3.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
