You may have noticed that my vacation is past due for being over, or you may have not. I said 30 days, but I can't even remember when I started. I've also worked on my letter and made audios, so I have exactly taken a break from my fight. I can't manage my life, but I'll get around to a conclusion at some point. My last offer is extremely reasonable, in terms of money. I have other demands that are also reasonable, if we keep confidentiality. This is related to what you've said (i.e. lies you have told) to the people at Bank of America and elsewhere. I also want a complete list of everything that you have been told about me, that has nothing to do with my job duties, and who told you. I want to also know if you asked them or if they freely provided the information. This will be over and I will never contact the piece of shit thugs on the other end again.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
