Part of what I am saying, about this twitter person, is I see the direction that you are going there, and it is the broad path that leads to damnation. You seem to be preparing for a circumstance where the public is made aware of what has happened, and what I can tell you is that if you fire a shot at my character, I will fire back and it will not work out for you. It will be terrible for you. You are talking to someone who comes from a background of just about every disadvantage a person could have, who suffers from many very significant limitations, and who has put in an enormous effort to do right at every juncture. This person also has an acute ability to see things as they are and to communicate the reality that he sees to others. You have not put a commensurate effort into doing right in your own lives or at least in the affairs of your business. You seem to see life in terms of defending your own interests, and you seem to see nothing wrong with looking at life this way.

Whatever the underlying explanation, I can beat the living hell out of the way you have conducted yourself. This isn't limited to this matter with me. The case that I have built against you is a blow that you can't get up from. I've put you in a position to be shut down once, already. The people who enforce the rules have saved you from that. If you attack my character in public and I attack you back, it is likely to be a blow that you can't get up from. There will be no one to save you the second time around. The Justice Department can't put a gun to people's heads and force them to do business with you.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
