It doesn't really matter, but I mistakenly told you wrong. I can't keep up with things. My total videos in my new series about my case is between 180 and 200, probably towards the lower end. There are no media people that have links to them all, because not all of them are uploaded. I can't remember who got what updated list. There are for sure people who have enough to validate just about every crime that has occurred.

It has driven me nuts, I've had an open and shut case, ready to be uncovered. I've had the evidence and everything laid out on a silver platter. All any one of these media people that I have been contacting for years has to do is press play, and go step by step. But to get these people to take the extraordinary step of looking at my god damn evidence was like the most impossible thing I've ever tried to do.

These people call themselves "investigative journalists" and they know about as much about being an investigator as these deadbeats at HHS OCR. Their definition of an "investigation" is everything thrown on their table on a silver platter, with the work already completely done in a way that it won't take them more than 2 minutes to validate what has happened.

I cracked the code though. If I ever have to do it, I know exactly how to go about it. That was the track I was on many months ago.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
