What are we going to do about the fact that Wells Fargo had me kidnapped 5x in one night? what are we going to do about the fact that Wells Fargo induced atrium health into terrible and rampant crimes against a man who was already disabled from their previous crimes. What are we going to do about the deprivation of rights under color of law, and the life sentence the officer is facing. What are we going to do about Melissa Scott's and broughton hospitals hipaa violation carried out for personal gain? What are we going to do about the second hipaa violation, where Melissa Scott, and most likely, her manager sent out my healthcare records, without my authorization, a second time, this time with the goal of obstructing Justice and evading consequences for the first time? What are we going to do about Wells Fargo's crime, in obtaining these records? What are we going to do about their made up story, where they make up a load of shit about "seeing signs that I am dangerous"? They tell this ridiculous lie at the same time that they deliver evidence of their crime with broughton hospital. This is a crime of federal obstruction of Justice, if we hold open that it is even a possibility that the justice department will actually investigate Wells Fargo, if and when Wells Fargo commits 100s or 1000s of felonies against one person. If there is actually a chance of that, my situation would qualify. That would mean that there was an investigation pending, and they corrupted it through deliberate lies.

This is the matter at hand. A simple, clear-cut situation. Not a drop of complexity to be found. A large, but very tidy set of tidy details. Lacking complexity doesn't mean lacking difficulty. We are posed with a hard question. How will we answer that?

Anytime that Wells Fargo brings up my healthcare issues from 25 years ago or from yesterday, or from anytime in between, put some putty in your ears, walk away, and read the block of text that I started this email with. That is the matter at hand, or at least it will get you started. There are actually more crimes that I haven't covered. But the matter at hand does not warrant 3 years of discussion and analysis. It does not take 3 years to read the block of text I gave you. You can look at all of my evidence in a week or 2 weeks, if you put the time in. Every fact about this situation has been a phone call away, from the second I first contacted you. You have hidden from the same reality that you have endeavored to hide from others through crime. Hiding from reality does not make reality go away; it just compounds and makes worse the cumulative consequences of hiding from reality.
