Re: We need to solve this - audio

To: "Division, Criminal (CRM)" <Criminal.Division@usdoj.gov>, civil.feedback@usdoj.gov

When I blast you like that, it is fairly frequently because I am having trauma symptoms that include hostility, I would say. That was the case last night.

The easy way out of this situation is to tell the public what happened, make the bank pay me $7 billion, and punish the people involved. That would totally work for me and the bank would obviously survive. It would also be the right thing to do. You wouldn't have anything else left to hide.

It wouldn't be without costs to me. I hate the idea of being in the public eye, but with $7 billion, I could deal with it.

That's a no brainer solution that would have this over in a short period of time. You don't like this solution, and so we have to go back to the drawing board, until I find a solution you like or you change your mind about what I propose.

You've got to stop acting like a bunch of demon possessed fruitcakes. Every single person you tell this bullshit about me ups the stakes. It makes it harder for me to cope with keeping this a secret, and it is an additional lie and act of cruelty against me to be exposed.

The people at this bank have a deity complex, and they are pathologically selfish to an extreme that even my poor dad couldn't comprehend. This somehow contributes to a phenomenon where these people's brains warp reality, such that every fact in front of them seems to favor them. Any fact that is neutral will be distorted by this reality warping mechanism. This also applies to facts that are against them. The reality warping mechanism will cause them to construe such a fact in such a way that it seems to dramatically be in their favor and to serve their interests.

An example of this is this federal crime where they illegally obtained my healthcare records. These people are such a bunch of fruitcakes that they think the fact that they have committed a federal crime is a point in their favor.

The point of this is that your battle against me is very much hopeless. Your chances of winning are above 0, but the odds are heavily against you. Every fact you have, concerning me, that you think will remotely help you in this situation, is a big fat joker.

The lies you were told, by Abbey, which may have seemed to be a point in your favor, were a big fat joker. Those came from a racist prison guard who is also a serial child rapist. He is a liability for you, as you have deliberately associated yourself with him. You don't want your face next to his in some periodical, but it may be. These lies have also contributed to the accrual of a multibillion dollar tort liability.

My healthcare records are a big fat joker. They are a liability for a substantial portion of the United States government, who have participated in a human rights abuse, and who have participated in the crimes of a Wall Street bank, by viewing these criminally obtained healthcare records. The United States is looking like a criminal subordinate of Wall Street. That's the cat that is going to come out of the bag, as a result of these healthcare records.

You may have some more big fat jokers. You seem to be in search of some big fat joker that will bail you out of this situation, in combination with an additional crime or additional series of crimes.

I don't care how big your hand of big fat jokers gets, not as far as I am concerned for me personally. The more desperately you search for the next big fat joker, the more you expose yourself as a corrupt pack of terrorists. Every big fat joker you play will just blow up in your face.

There is a pattern here, if you will look back. Your big fat jokers will blow up in your face. You will get caught in your next criminal act.

If I seem mean, arrogant, or intimidating, in saying this, you have to factor in that, as I have repeatedly said, I have put enormous effort into doing what is right in life. You are attacking this exemplary life, and even more exemplary pattern of striving to do right, that I have built. I built it through long, hard, sustained, and not too often relenting effort.

You are attacking all of this in the most cowardly ways. You are doing so in a manner what is utterly worthy of disgust and contempt. You can expect me to fight back. I have no awe and reverence for you, not in excess of what I feel for any given unfortunate man who lives on the streets. In terms of awe and reverence, you are many, many, many notches below the prostitutes that I follow on Twitter.

If it has any effect on you, I will never have a heart or a soul that is equal, in beauty, to that of some of these brothel workers that I follow.

I am not attacking your whole agency and I'm not attacking every single person who works for this bank; I am attacking your actions against me, which are completely indefensible and inhuman. I am also defending myself, and I am not all that afraid of having my entire life placed in the court of public opinion, to be judged. It will destroy me. I value my privacy above all else. It will make life painful and hard, but it doesn't change the fact that I can and will defend my life and the efforts that I have made. I only ask to be judged on a relative basis, relative to the rest of us, who do inhabit or have inhabited this planet, as mere human beings.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
