"I should be allowed to take care of myself and live what life I have left."

- being handicapped like this effectively cuts my lifespan by 75% or more. That's if you measure in terms of what time I have to use. When I am doing good to get 2 hours worth of work out of a given day, with work defined as anything other than suffering and surfing the internet, when I used to get 12 or 14 or more, it makes 7 current days be the equivalent of 1 of my old days, the days I had before this happened.

I have been doing some work on my computer, and it has me in the worst state of distress. I feel like I want to die. I feel this way so much of the time. So much of the time I crave death. It is horrible.

Clint Williams
