"Some of my projects also overlap with my fight. They are things that can be helpful in my fight, if I decide to use them for those purposes."

- I meant to tell you this the other day. I have an idea for a business that sex workers exiting the sex work industry can do. They would have to be somewhat less traumatized/handicapped than me.

It is doing Audio transcripts with AWS AI. I have an idea for some software that would integrate with AWS and speed up the process of making transcripts by about 100x, vs doing them manually. These women spend $1,000 to $3,000 a week from what I've gathered. They have extreme trouble focusing. This would be something they could do on a computer, where you don't have to focus much. There is something different about working on a computer. They could make probably $1,000 to $1,500 a week, once their business got going.

I can't type anymore.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
