I'm probably going to have to get an EEG + some other scan, potentially an fMRI. A PET scan is the best, maybe, but that's a $40k expense. Then neuropsychological testing is $2,500 to $3,000 for a full suite of tests. Then I will have to pay for my appointments with the neurologist, which are probably $700 or more each.

I redesigned my old clients website before I was disabled. I thought I had deleted it, but I recently found an old copy on my external hard drive. I may try to sell it to them. I could probably get $1,000 out of it. I could actually probably get more. I can get ChatGPT to build me a UI for an admin page.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
