Today will be a good day. I was able to do my kasina. I think I will be able to do it every day. I've got to get this thing done for my therapist. I am using ChatGPT to help me with it. After that, I need to find out how much my neurological treatment will cost and work on getting it set up. I may be able to lower the cost by getting supplemental Medicare coverage. I looked it up, and my impairment is not too likely to show up on an EEG. I get a free EEG with my Medicare coverage, so I will get one anyways. It can help narrow down what causes my impairment.

I am not sure about this website for my old client. It will be very hard to meet their demands. I am very worried about getting in an argument and them calling the police on me or something. I think I will probably do it.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
