I may not die, but I have suffered continuous agony and been near death for years. You give the impression that you could watch this go on forever. I contacted the Justice Department, as a man who was burning alive with horrific suffering. The people who did this to me are sitting on oceans of water, and instead of making them give some water to me, you decided to douse me in gasoline, so that I could burn more and burn hotter, for their gratification.

That's what I have felt like. That's what this has been like for me. You can do better. You have just made some terrible mistakes.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
