I moved to Charlotte to escape this, and I did escape it for a while. Life was so good. But did I escape it forever? How did that work out? Does any of this sound familiar to you? What would the chickenshits who cowardly use this despicable and dishonest tactic do, if it weren't available to them? Am I entitled to be mad, after having my life cruelly stolen, by people who could do no better than this?

6. In the mountains I was subjected to disparaging treatment and stigmatization because I have a history of hospitalization for mental health treatment. I lived in secret but terrible pain in this place, before moving to Charlotte N.C. in August 2011.

69. My distress was caused by vicious opposition I faced, and ruthless, behind the back attacks on my character. The opposition was everywhere and largely by people who smiled at me to my face. They had found a great tactic to aid them in their opposition. They would say disparaging things about my mental health history. I am not sure of all that was said, but I have reason to believe that it was things that were exaggerated to a cruel extreme.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
