I am like a Rottweiler. That is a good way to think of me. I live in my own little world, and I viciously fight back when provoked. There is another thing that comes into play, that certainly has to do with my being autistic. I get preoccupied with stuff. The people I worked with in 2014 to 2016 may recall when my car was broken into. I was on the case, doing an investigation and mad as hell. It gave the appearance to others, that my interest in it was excessive and irrational. I remember one person saying "I would never, ever steal from Clint." It's like they don't want to be on the other end of my irrational and excessive aggression.

It is just who I am, all of these qualities.

Warmest Regards,

Clint Williams
